Colored Barred in Patriotic Rally

Though the Colored Band Played, the Meeting Was Only for the White People Colored Patriots Not Admitted.

Tulsa, Ok., April 26.—Much indignation has been expressed among the second colored people of the city because all Negroes were excluded from the patriotic rally in behalf of the War Savings Stamp Campaign held at the Garden Theatre last Sunday night.

Col. W. Bladen Lowdres, prominent in republican and financial circles, was a leading spirit in making arrangements for the meeting. Then former Governor Goldsborough and Albert G. Towles, chairman of the Public Service Commission, were among the speakers.

The admission fee requirement was that those entering the theatre should buy one or more Thrift Stamps. Several hundred colored people sought admittance, but were either told "No 'niggers' allowed" or colored people not admitted.

As they left the theatre, they poured out their wrath against such a situation. While the attendants were busy "showing" colored people away several multitudes slipped by.

The attraction was the 568th Infantry band and its new local band leader, Sergeant Landers.

The band was directed by A. Jack Thomas, and its excellent playing of classical, patriotic and ragtime music as well as the department of the drum major, put the big audience in fine humor. Yet no colored people were allowed to witness it. At a big overflow meeting at the roof, Sergeant Landers collected half of the $2,400 needed, in all about $17,000 was realized, and at least $80,000 is expected.

It is said that representatives of the War Savings Stamp Campaign called up leading spirits in the colored section of the Maryland Council of Defense and offered to arrange a "Gala Crow" meeting for colored people. This request was refused.

"I am sorry that any of our colored people went to the theatre," said a prominent man, "and thereby were insulted by being refused. In these perilous times such treatment to the race has a tendency to dampen the patriotic ardor of the colored people. It is time when those who would aid in every way to crush Germany should see that petty race prejudices in this country are forgotten while seeking to attain the larger and more important results."

Some of the colored people made utterances that would be regarded as seditious, so angry were they at being refused admittance. They wanted to hear the 568th band—one of the many that is to cheer the colored boys on while they try to get the Kaiser.

A reporter of the Afro-American, thinking perhaps, the reason colored people were not allowed in the meeting, was because of the policy of the Garden Theatre to cater to whites only, called up the office of the War Savings Stamp Committee and asked the following question: "Was it at the insistence of that colored people were barred from the Garden Theatre Sunday night?"

The answer from the other end of the wire came out immediately, clearly, decisively and honestly "Yes." Efforts to get in communication with Col. W. Bladen Lowdres were unavailing.
